EVALUATION OF CONTENT

1. During the first week in October 1946, there were Soviet troop movements in Bulgaria; two divisions from Bulgarian Macedonia were replaced by divisions from the northern part of Bulgaria and similar operations were carried out in the neighborhood of the Turkish frontier. It was observed that the divisions sent to Macedonia were in possession of heavy artillery, but those divisions which were replaced left without heavy equipment. These movements by-passed the capital and travelled through Pernik and Kostinbrod.
2. Troop movements for the relief of the Turkish frontier garrisons took place through Stara Zagora. The relief troops were new recruits.
3. Soviet troops enter Bulgaria across the Danube at Svishtov and at Ruse, where they use the ferry-boat "Lamit".
